"Shangri-La" was escalated to reality as the Class of 1967 unveiled their creation. The Oriental setting was adorned by Japanese design and the volcanic mountain.

The geishas, alias freshmen girls, served as hostesses to the Juniors and Seniors along with their dates, as well as the young-at-heart faculty members.

Fortune cookies and punch were served as refreshers for the dancing duos.

The Continentals provided the background for the Royal March, which saw Becky Arthur and Tom Grier crowned queen and king of the affair.

Boots and go-go girls were part of the decorations as the party-goers came back to the U.S.A. This "mod pod" was created for the after prom party.

The up tempo beat of the band and the indulgence of the refreshments kept the students busy until wee hours of the morning.

Prom king and queen candidates are: Carolyn Wilson, Charles Hunt, Susan Pettilohn, Bob Johnson, Debra

"Four of a Kind," which involved four one act plays was presented on April 15 and 16, 1966 by the Drama Club. Each of these presentations was completely different and independent of the rest.

The featured attractions were "The Open Window," "A Cup of Tea," "Shadow of a Dream," and "Why I am a Bachelor."

This program involved approximately twenty performers.

November 11, 1966 marked the opening of the off-Broadway smash musical, "The Amorous Flea," at Greenfield High School. This tale, based on Moliere's comedy "School for Wives," presented the lives of Monsieur Arnolphe; his bride-to-be, Agnes; his two servants, Alain and Georgette; and Agnes's lover, Horace. The merry mix-up and musical score made for a memorable production.

In all of the plays, the stage craft, art work, costuming, and publicity, was handled by the Masque and Wig, under the supervision of Mr. Greenland and Mrs. Keene.

The villian, Horace, finally reaches his beloved Agnes.

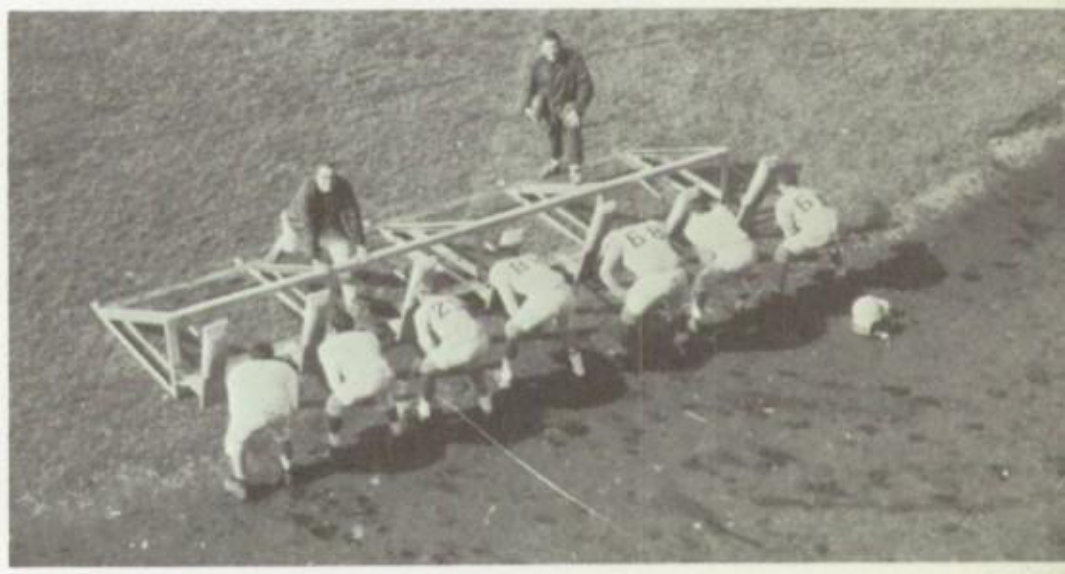
ATHLETICS



The mythical athlete is faced with much preparation for his moment of triumph as he scores the winning touchdown, drops in the basket for the final two points of a basketball game, or takes the final stride to a cross-country or track victory.

After a full day of classes, the athlete reports to the locker room where he dresses for two hours of rigorous training and instruction.

After dressing, the members participate in strenuous calisthenics for limbering and relaxing muscles. Next units of boys then work on different plays or techniques while other groups improve on other facets.

Attention is next placed on the team as a whole. The team plays a regular race or game to learn the other players' techniques.

While practicing, the members put into motion how the opponent will react and what to do in case the opposing team has a counterplan.

After approximately two hours of exhausting conditioning, the team and coaches gather to study means of attack, defense, and how to control physical stability.

The team is made up of individuals who must cope with special needs for perfection. Besides the physical aspect, the troupe must study and use the tactic of clear thinking. Pep talks are delivered by the coaches, expressing good sportsmanship, determination, tactics, and ability to win.

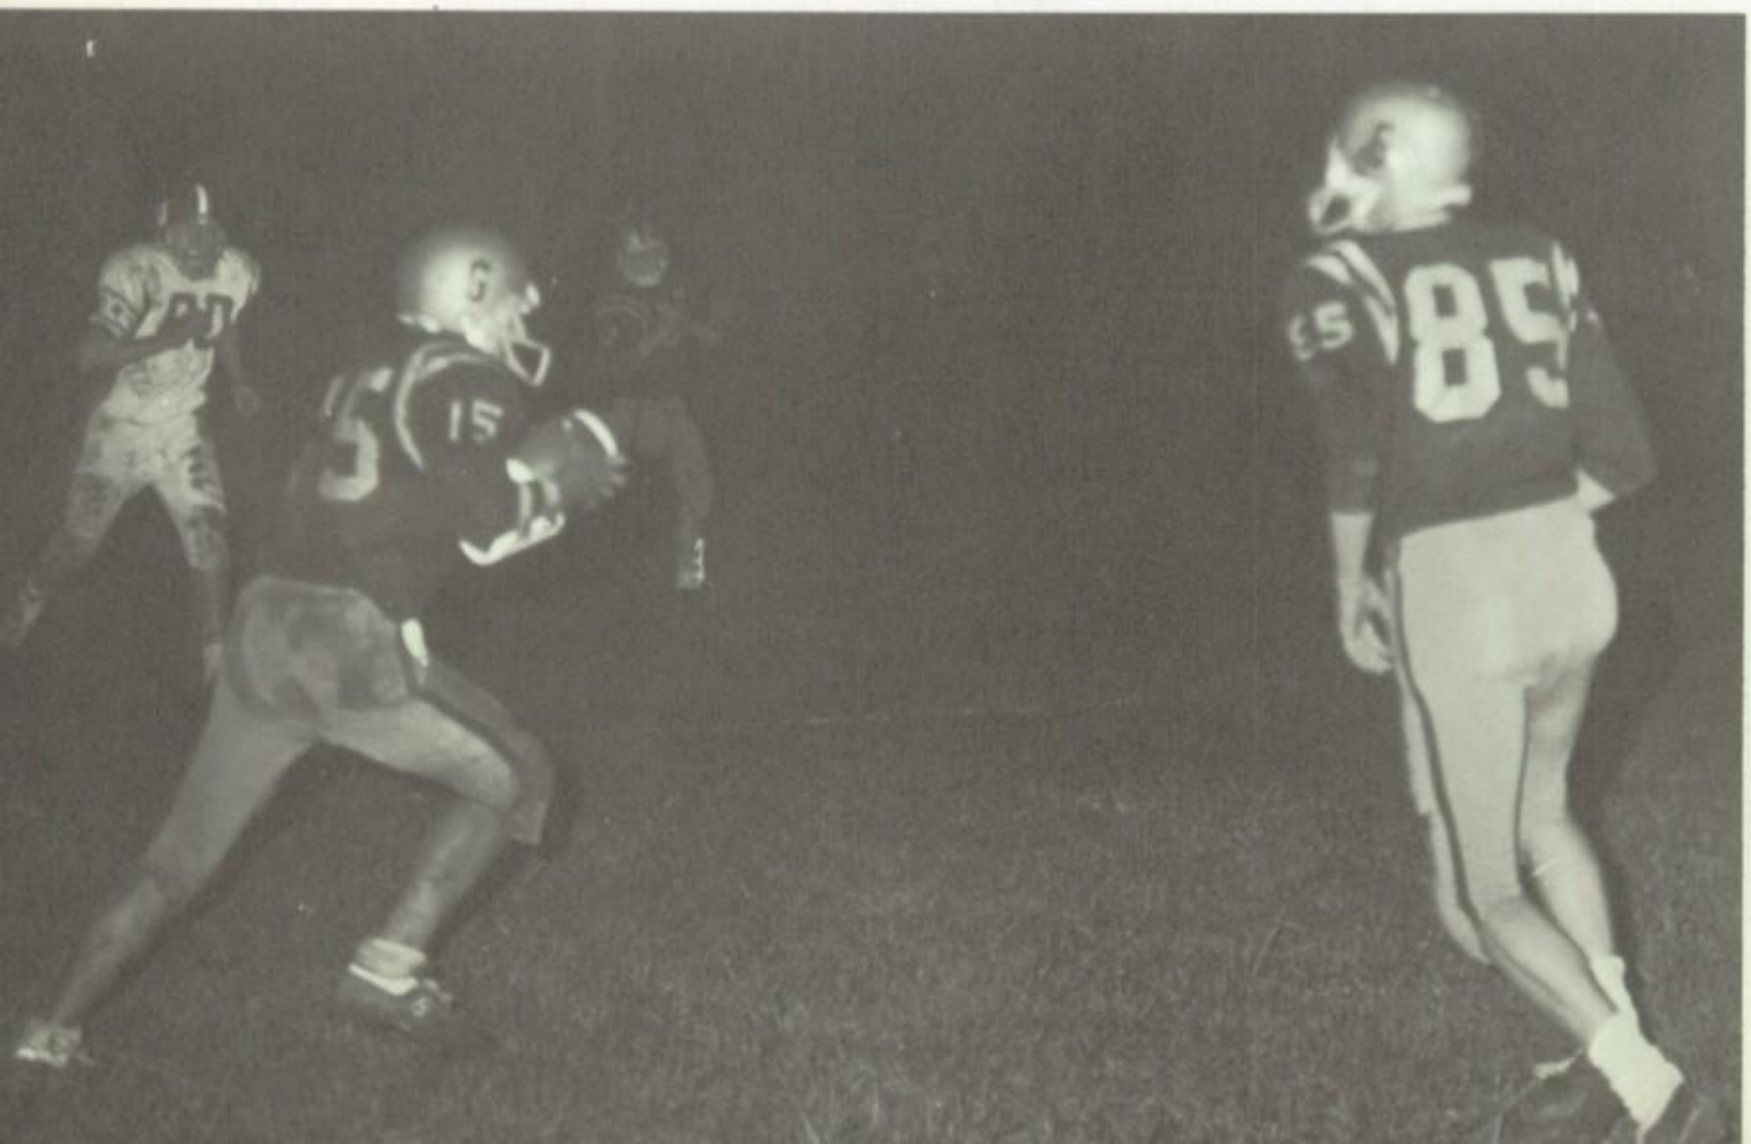
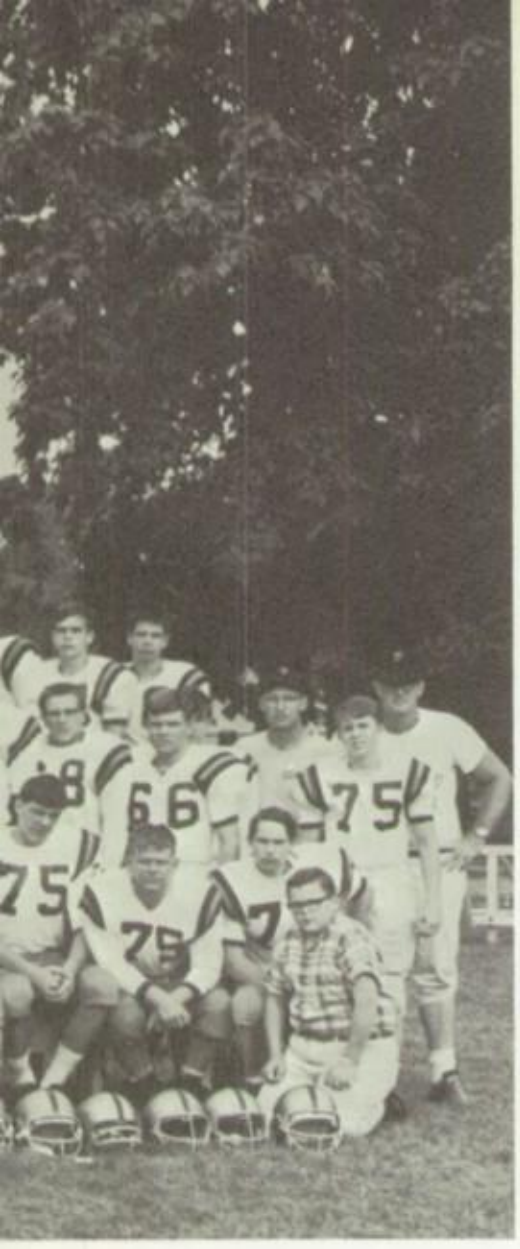
Greenfield Capital District Conference

Tiger team tackles another touchdown.





The 1966 Greenfield Varsity hustled off the football field with seven wins and three losses.

Sharing first place in the Capital District Conference with Chatard was a touchdown for the entire troupe.

Bonus points were added when four Greenfield players were named to the all-conference list. Jim Davis, fullback and Dave Messerlie, quarterback were added to the roster as well as defensemen Ron Shively and Rick Gray.

After defeating Pike, the Tigers scored a real safety as they lowered the boom on Hamilton Heights to make a successful conclusion to our Homecoming.

The 66-67 Tiger team can't seem to be tamed. Several of last year's varsity squad, mixed with a few cubs, make up this year's pack.

Despite a losing start, the Tigers convinced the audience of their prowess by winning four conference games. The team can count on first place in the Capital District Conference.

To spread the icing on the cake, the squad brought home the championship for the holiday tourney victories.

Adding to the laurels of the team by springing back after a losing streak they proved to themselves they could make the ball work for them. After this ten-game winning streak, they lost a heart-breaker to Carmel. This game seemed to serve as more initiative to regain another string of wins. They came back strong.

Can teamwork and determination change the tennis shoe into the glass slipper of the Cinderella success tale? The glass slipper reflects the team's efforts in additions to the trophy case.

Ron Smiddy shoots a jump shot.

Reserves Groom for Varsity Letter

Reserve basketball players, Bodkins and Andrews, practice different defense plays.

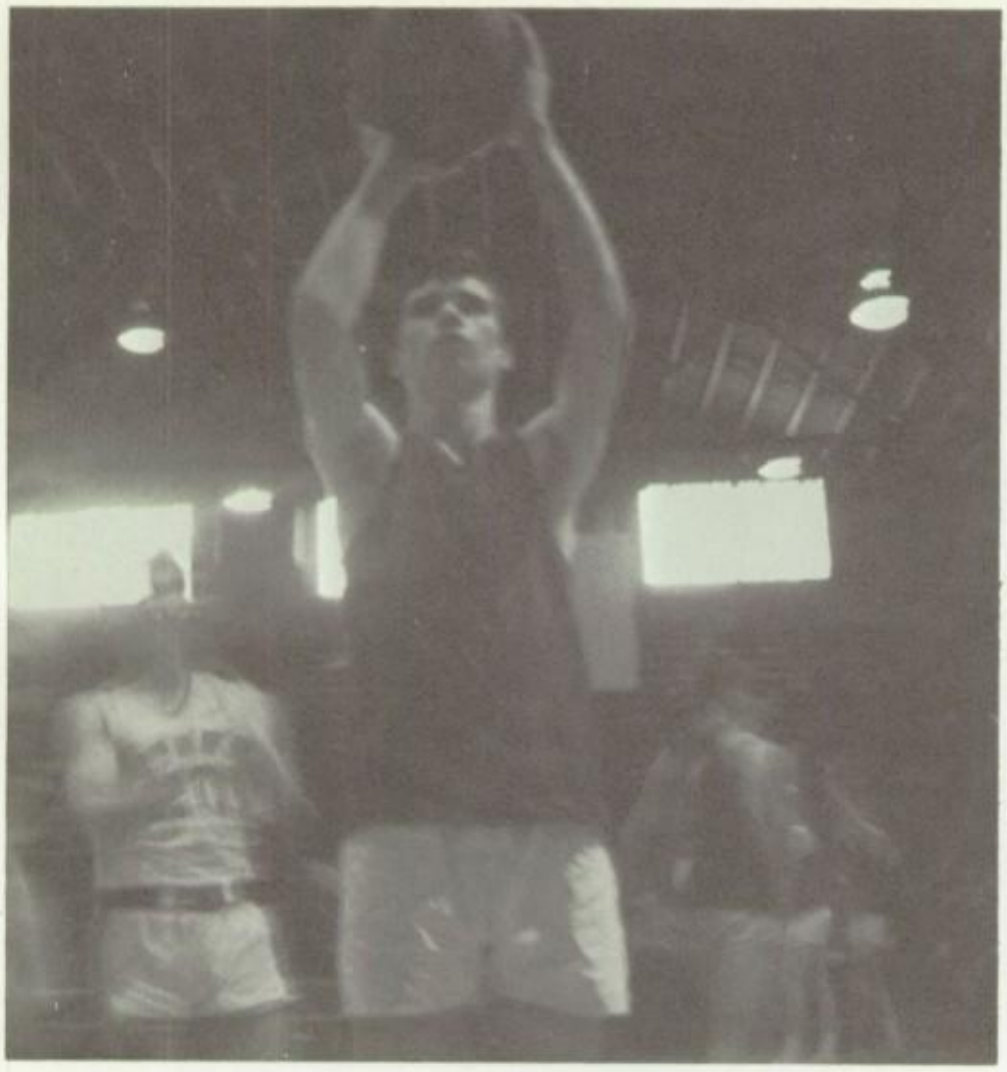
Although the reserve team is considered second fiddle to the varsity squad, the reserves are the framework of what will possibly make up next year's number squad.

Despite the fact that the varsity is accompanied by the reserve team at almost every game, the reserve players bring home many honors for Greenfield.

This team's objectives are to complete the skill and aptitude testing before the final analysis is made on who should compose next year's varsity crew.

The reserve team also starts the blaze of enthusiasm which is enhanced as the varsity squad hits the hardwood.

Frosh Learn Tactics of Good Sportsmanship



Charlie Freeman practices free throws.

The freshman team might be compared to boot camp. The team studies tactics, procedures, and other facts of vital concern to a basketball team before they meet the opponent on the battle court. The team strives to win games rather than wars.

They prepare battle action which will later help them as members of the reserve and varsity teams.

Reiteration of good sportsmanship and drive is always warranted, as well as the power of positive thinking and teamwork.

Track Team Completes Another Winning

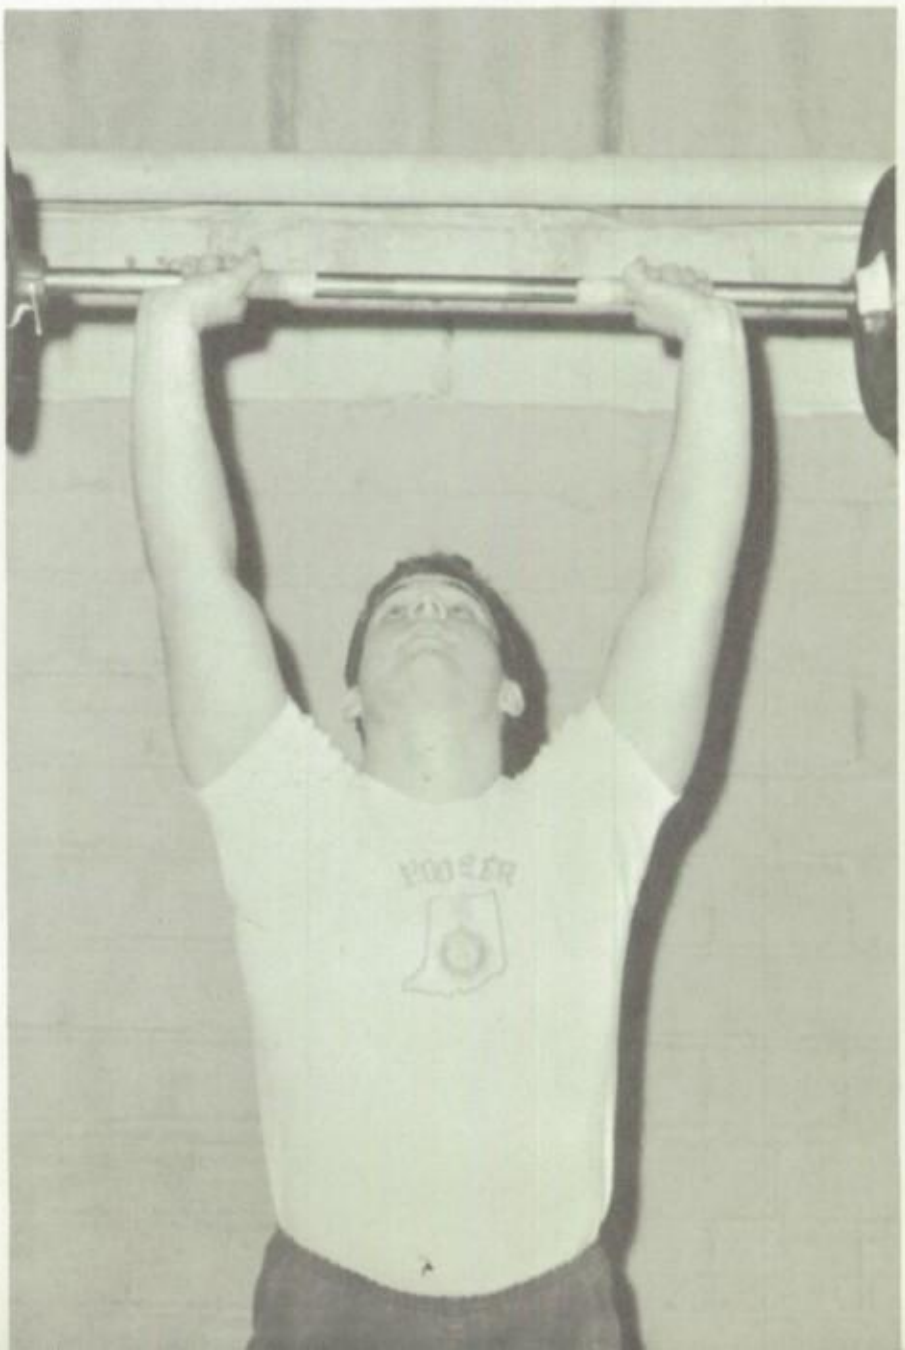
Greenfield's long distance runners stayed on the right track, as they parlayed a winning season to end the 1966 school year on the right foot.

The weeks of practice and learning were culminated by the winning ways of the team.

The emergence of sophomore, Tom New, as a long distance runner graced the success of the team and also put a healthy glow on the records of the team for the next three years.

Besides the various relays, the hurdles to success include the shot put, pole-vault, hurdles, broad jump, high jump, and individual races. Head Coach Myers was assisted by various faculty members.



Jim Davis lifts weights to get in training for track.

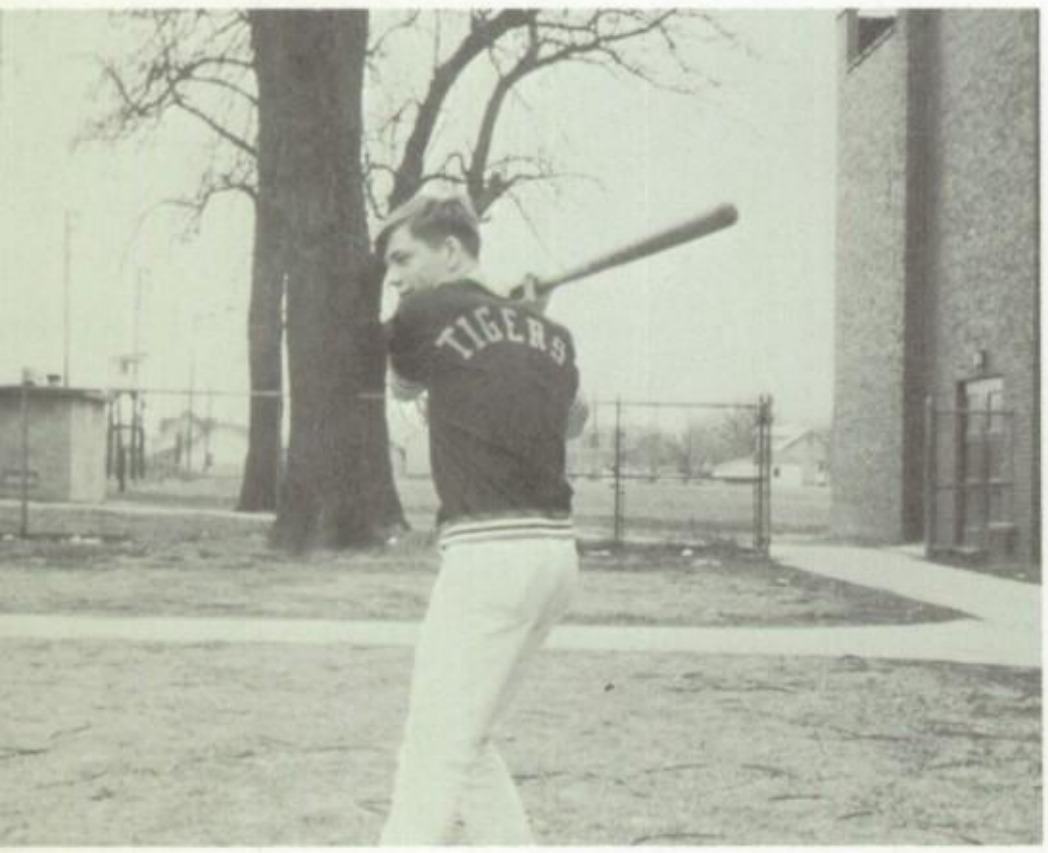
Baseball Team Anxiously Await Season

Tony Ritter exhibits proper batting stance.



May we present the Greenfield High School baseball platoon! The Capital District Conference Champions batted to the realms of a successful season. The team stole the show as they exploited their swinging power.

Although the 1966 Annual merely promised a successful season for the team, the efforts of the squad and Coach Garland fulfilled the promise. Again this year the team is faced with the problem of graduating its members. Returning members and team hopefuls will have to play it safe to strike the opponents out.

Cross Country Team Paces to Victory

The cross country team under the skillful guidance of Coach Garland this year compiled an excellent record which included wins in the C.D.C. and Sectional.

Tom New, undefeated in dual competition led the team. Outstanding senior runners Dave Hine, Mike Harris, and Larry Haste composed the framework of the team.

Beginning individual conditioning in early summer, the men meet as a unit in August to begin intense workouts. The team runs at the Country Club.

Wrestlers Work Out Ways for Winning

Varsity wrestler Herb Johnson strives for victory.

This year's wrestling team, hurt considerably by graduation, boldly enters each meet with hopes of furthering Greenfield's dynasty in the Capital District Conference. Seniors, Herb Johnson and Greg Petosky, form the backbone of the team, and a crop of able underclassmen carry the additional responsibility.

Every winter evening, Coach Miller puts his grapplers through an intensive workout in which basic fundamentals and conditioning are stressed. This year the wrestling team faces tough competition in the form of New Castle and Richmond.

Coach Miller anxiously awaits results of a match.

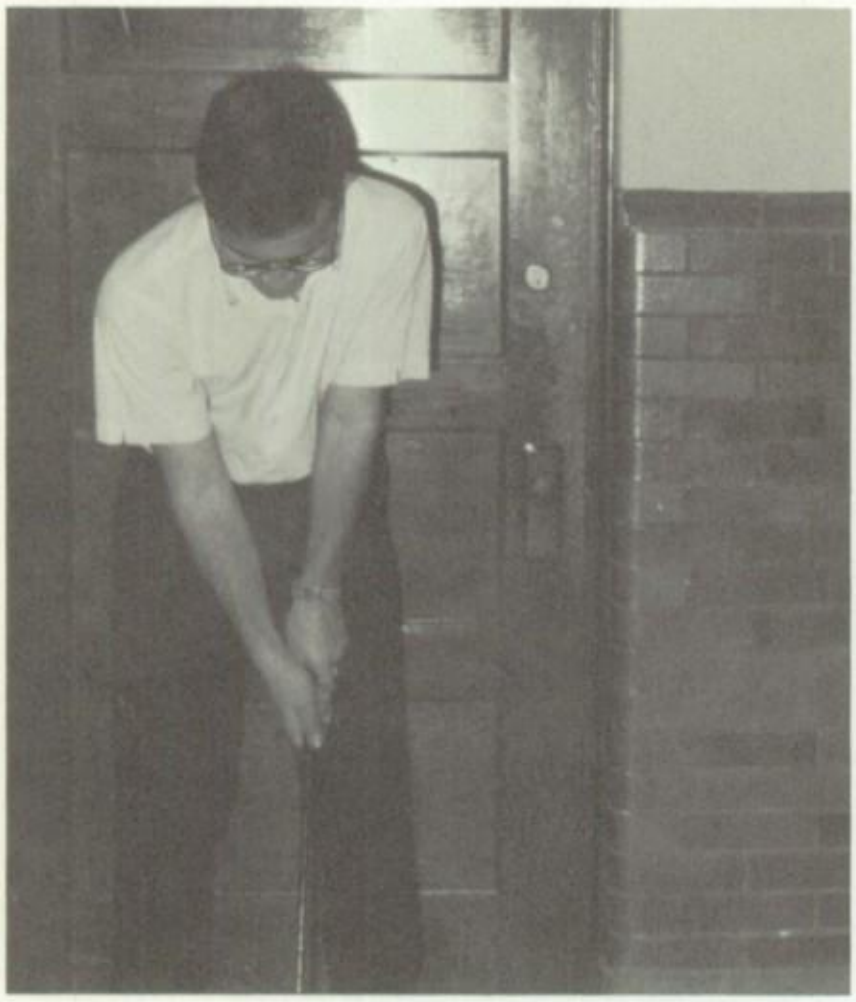
Linksmen Defend C.D.C. Title



Meredith Hull practices putting stroke.

Coach Miller's golf team drives into the 1967 season as defending champions of the Capital District Conference with expectations of a sectional crown. This year's team is led by senior, Meredith Hull, and is enriched by returning lettermen Rick Gregory, Bob Hill, Bob Prange, Bob Spacey and Bob Voegtle.

The team tangles with tough competition in the form of Muncie South, Warren Central, and Chatard. In addition to their regular season meets, the golf team participates in the C.D.C. meet, the sectional in Anderson, and the Bloomington Invitational.

GOLF TEAM: ROW I: Gary Beyer, Bob Spacey, Steve Gruber, John Barr. ROW II: Mr. Miller, Coach; Meridith Hull, Rick Gregory, Bob Prange, Bill Voegtle.

Tennis Team Smashes To Victory

The tennis team under the able leadership of Coach Welcome tackles some of the finest teams in Indiana, which include Peru, Pike, and Richmond. This year's team, led by returning seniors and letterman Alan Smith, is filled with promising talent in the form of Mel King, Rick Keevan, David Reuter, John Dishman, Paul Wilson, and Tim Beeson.

Practice begins in the gymnasium in early spring with work in perfecting the fundamentals of the serve and volley. At the arrival of equitable weather the teams move to the asphalt, where each man can make final preparations for the meet.

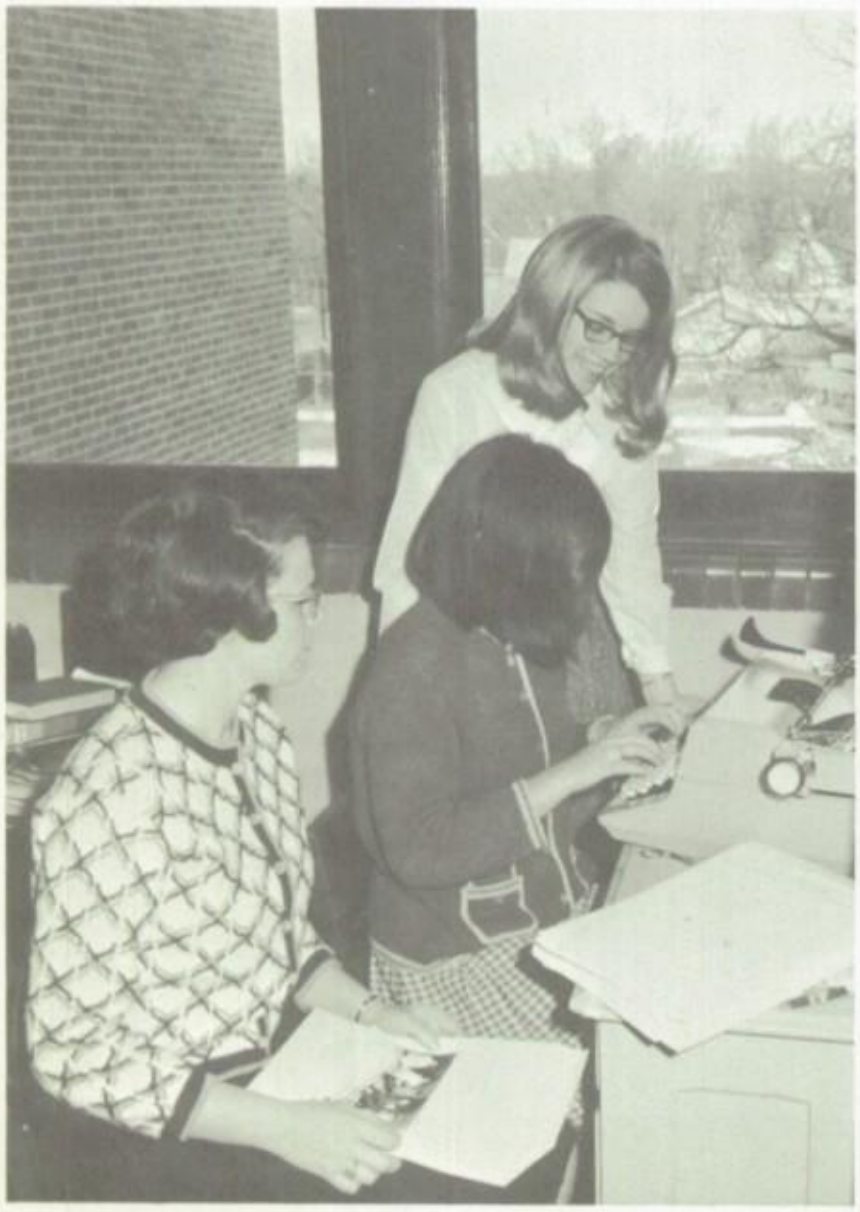
CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

When the books close and the bell rings, students rush from the classroom and truly go their separate ways. Some hurry to punch the time clock at a part-time job; others think "things go better with Coke." A few go home to perform assigned household chores, and fewer go home to perform assigned homework chores. A great number of Greenfield students, perhaps the majority, belong to clubs at school. The more formal name for this membership is participation in extracurricular activities. College applications and employment applications seem to prefer the latter terminology. Why do they, the colleges and employers, ask for the listing of clubs? Why do teachers take the extra time to sponsor clubs? Why do students spend the time being officers and active members?

If a poll were to be taken among all those who are involved the answers would vary from, "It's fun," to a statement of value. The value of extracurricular activities could be listed in a number of rewards. One recognition is due for the experience provided in less formal work with studied subjects, such as that of departmental clubs. Some students find school organizations provide the opportunities for creative use of talents in music and art. The acceptance of responsibility is a goal some seek in assuming the leading roles in publications, student government, and honor societies. In summary, in a word, clubs provide togetherness.

Annual Staff Delivers on Deadlines

SENIOR ANNUAL STAFF: Bob Jefford, Jane Sarff, Meredith Hull, Vicky Drake, Tony Ritter, Becky Thomas.



Jane Sarff, Vicky Drake, and Becky Thomas work to meet a deadline.

Meredith Hull and Mrs. Weatherman discuss layout design.

Another deadline means another long day for the Camaraderie Staff. A February date marks the end of the preparation of copy which must record an entire year's events. Long hours are only one ingredient in the recipe for preparing a yearbook.

First mix people in their work and play; add comments and quotes. Fold in the support of advertising and subscription sales. Pour into mailing boxes; wait approximately two months. Yield: The Camaraderie.

"Chief cook" for the yearbook staff is Editor, Meredith Hull. Assisting in the third floor "kitchen" are Seniors: Tony Ritter, Sports Editor; Becky Thomas, Business Manager; Vicky Drake, Clubs and Organizations Editor; Jane Sarff, Senior Class Editor; Bob Jefford, Social Editor.

Underclassmen on the staff are: Vicki Owens, Faculty and Administration Editor; Rick Gregory, Junior Class Editor; Sally Draper, Copy-Writer, Betsy Hunt, Copy-Writer; Rick Keevan, Freshman Class Editor; Lynn Lane.

The National Honor Society looks upon education as a measure of distinction in four dimensions—scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Greenfield High School elects students into the Society, honoring them for past attainments and recognizing the promise they hold for continued excellence in the cherished ideals of the school. Membership is indeed an honor; it is also a responsibility and the beginning of an obligation to "create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character."

The local club, The Riley Chapter of the National Honor Society, is currently experimenting with a tutorial system for students who are failing academic subjects. The Chapter also purchased new mats for the aisles in the auditorium.

Fifty-one juniors and seniors comprise the active membership, and approximately thirty-five sophomores will be inducted in the second semester.

The Student Council carries on a most colorful all-school election. In May of each year candidates seeking an office submit petitions to the Principal. An assembly is called in which candidates for President present speeches as the culmination of their campaigns.

The annual Homecoming, held in the fall of each year, is almost entirely managed by the Student Council, aided by Mr. Pfaff. The Homecoming game was preceeded by the colorful Homecoming parade. The days events were brought to a climax by the crowning of the Homecoming Queen by the President Jim Davis at the halftime of the football game.

Each year, the Council has sponsored an award to the senior showing the most improvement during their four year stay at G.H.S.

During the past year, the Council has inaugurated a series of homeroom discussions between the delegate and students to further cooperation and understanding.

The officers and several members of the Council attended the State Student Council Convention at Richmond in October. Many helpful ideas were brought back by the members to use to improve the Council.

Student Council members Mark Harrison, Susan Gossett, and Jim Davis type club constitution letters.

Clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship and clean living are the platform of Senior Tri-Hi-Y. Membership in this service club is open to any junior or senior girl who meets the necessary requirements of grades and moral character.

This year's activities included a Thanksgiving basket and Christmas donations for needy families. The club also sponsored a Christmas party for young children complete with Santa Claus, presents, and stockings for each child. Another project was the making and selling of Cheerblock blouses and mittens. The sponsor, Mrs. Hayes, has devoted much time and effort for the progress of the club.

The Junior Tri-Hi-Y is an organization founded by the Y. M. C. A. for freshman and sophomore girls. Tri-Hi-Y combines service projects with social activities, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Bartnick.

Many service projects have been planned for this year. These include donations of food, clothing, and toys for a needy family at Christmas and Thanksgiving, and supporting a hospital for the mentally ill by the donation of Betty Crocker coupons.

Social activities include swimming at the East Side Y. M. C. A., and a "get-acquainted" party for incoming freshmen.

Junior Tri-Hi-Y officers plan program for next meeting.

Dave Messerlie, Dave Willard, and Leo Davis put evergreens in Hi-Y planter.

The Hi-Y under the leadership of club officers and sponsors has been more active than in recent years. The organization is made up of young men whose goals include serving others; the maintenance of a high level of social, moral, educational, and Christian ethics; and clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living.

The Hi-Y annually sponsors the Thanksgiving Program and serves the community at Christmas by working with Santa's Helpers. This year the Hi-Y endeavored to improve the appearance of the school by putting new shrubs in the planters at the east entrance. The Hi-Y informs the community of school events by posting each week's schedule on the activities board in front of the school.

The club can be a stimulating organization offering much enjoyment to participating members.

The Future Teachers of America is a club designed to promote the interest in the educational area. Whether it be in elementary education, secondary education, or college teaching, the students are given a chance to investigate the opportunities teaching affords.

Senior members of FTA are eligible to cadet teach. Through this, seniors are acquainted with the teaching field. They can discover if teaching is the field that they should pursue.

The officers of the Future Teachers of America are Mary Ann Unger, President; Nancy Atkinson, Vice-President; Jeanette Strahl, Secretary; and Diane Jenkins, Treasurer.

There are hopes that in the new school a special class called Explorative Teaching will be offered. This would be a class where senior students interested in teaching would sit in on a class that they would like to teach. After some time of studying the teacher they would be able to teach the class for experience and also receive a grade for the way they teach.

Dan Ferguson and Alan Shumard test a new computer.

The Math & Science Club was organized about five years ago to promote excellence in Math and Science. It is open to any freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior maintaining a "B" average in a math or science course. This year the club has grown to 108 members, evenly divided among all classes.

The club's activities are many: field trips, to such places as Butler's observatory, Allison's, and Eli Lilly, speakers from the surrounding Universities come to Greenfield to give lectures, and the club annually enters the M.A.A. math contest. The M.A.A. contest is the highlight of the year, with awards ranging from books of Mathematical Tables to a mathematics pin and a $25 scholarship. Last years's winner of this scholarship was Dan Ferguson.

Latin Club officers plan their next meeting.

The Latin Club, under the leadership of its officers and its sponsor, Mrs. Binford, has increased its activity tremendously over last year. This year the club initiated the project of adopting a foreign child. The club sends money and food to a child in Italy, the money coming from the club treasury and money-making projects. The club hopes this idea and project will be continued by each club in the future.

To be eligible to belong to the Latin Club, one must be presently taking or have taken Latin II. New members are asked to join by the President about half way through the first semester and then initiated at the next meeting.

The main activity for the Latin Club is the annual Roman Banquet. At the Banquet, members of the Latin Club come dressed as Romans, eat their dinner in the Roman fashion, and participate in Roman activities.

"Se abre la sesion." These words are spoken as the gavel is pounded to open the Spanish Club meeting.

After prancing with Jose Greco or the Folkloric Dancers, the organization can settle down in an easy chair to watch movies in both Spanish and English and visit the museums of Spanish art.

This group was formed to promote interest in Spanish culture and civilization. The club is sponsored by Miss Bower.

New members await Spanish induction.

Mr. Greenland and Dan Ferguson prepare props for the school play.

Lights! Camera! Action! and the dramatists of Greenfield High School meet to plan the live stage productions presented by the Drama Club.

The Greenfield High School Drama Club, which recently became affiliated with the National Masque and Wig Association, is responsible for the production of school plays and the supervision of the stage equipment.

Many activities are correlated with producing a play. Those students who are not members of the play cast are placed on committees such as Costumes, Business, Publicity, Stage Craft, and Stage Crew. Each of these is essential to the success of the traditional Broadway show.

Concert Choir participates in annual Christmas program.

The first period of the day fills the school with the sound of music from room 209. Music since 1957 has been taught by Mr. Richard Greenland, who has raised it to its present level of excellence. The department has ramified into three classes with the Concert Choir at the head. It is the concert choir that represents the school in most contests and public performances. On the list of performances are the Christmas concert, Spring concert, many private performances, sometimes a musical, and several school functions—Thanksgiving, Christmas, commencement, and graduation.

Freshman Chorus and Voice Class join the Concert Choir for many of the concerts. These students spend time learning technique in utilizing the voice, both for singing and speaking.

The Library Club of G.H.S. is made up of students interested in promoting the use of the school library or in actual library work.

This year members of the Library Club helped with seasonal decorations and bulletin board displays in the library, as well as the sale of paperback books. This money is spent on needed equipment for the library. During the second semester, the club toured the Butler University Library and the Indianapolis Public Library to watch the many services a large library performs.

Membership in the Library Club increased this year as the students became more interested in the improvement of their school library.

THE RILEYAN seeks to be a line of communication between the school and the home. Being concerned only with school news, it attempts to give GHS students recognition for achievements, both academic and athletic. A calendar of coming school events is included in the paper. THE RILEYAN also features a special column, "Notes From the Dean's Desk," which aids students with their problems.

Our paper, written by the journalism students under the direction of Mrs. Ann Lee, is a self-supporting unit. Journalism students sell advertisements to local businesses and solicit student subscriptions to the paper. The journalism department also sponsors the annual Valentine King and Queen Contest and a sock-hop.

Amid the uproar over rising costs, the price of THE RILEYAN has remained the same for the past ten years. The staff still puts out the much-anticipated Special Senior Issue.

No paper would be complete without photographs, and we of THE RILEYAN staff owe our thanks to Mr. Dale Briles and Phil Hollenbaugh of Da-Jo Studios for their work with us.

RILEYAN Strives for Quality

The Art Club is organized to help arouse student's interest in art and to decorate the school, giving it more color and spirit for the different seasons.

This club is sponsored by Mrs. Demegret, art teacher of Greenfield High School. Students available to join Art Club are those who are taking art or have had at least one year of art. They must be willing to put in extra hours of work eagerly, because of deadlines that must be met at times.

There are at least two meetings a month, depending on the season and work to be done.

Art Club members Don Dunham and Glenda Whitaker work on latest project.

Chess Club Competes in Royal Game

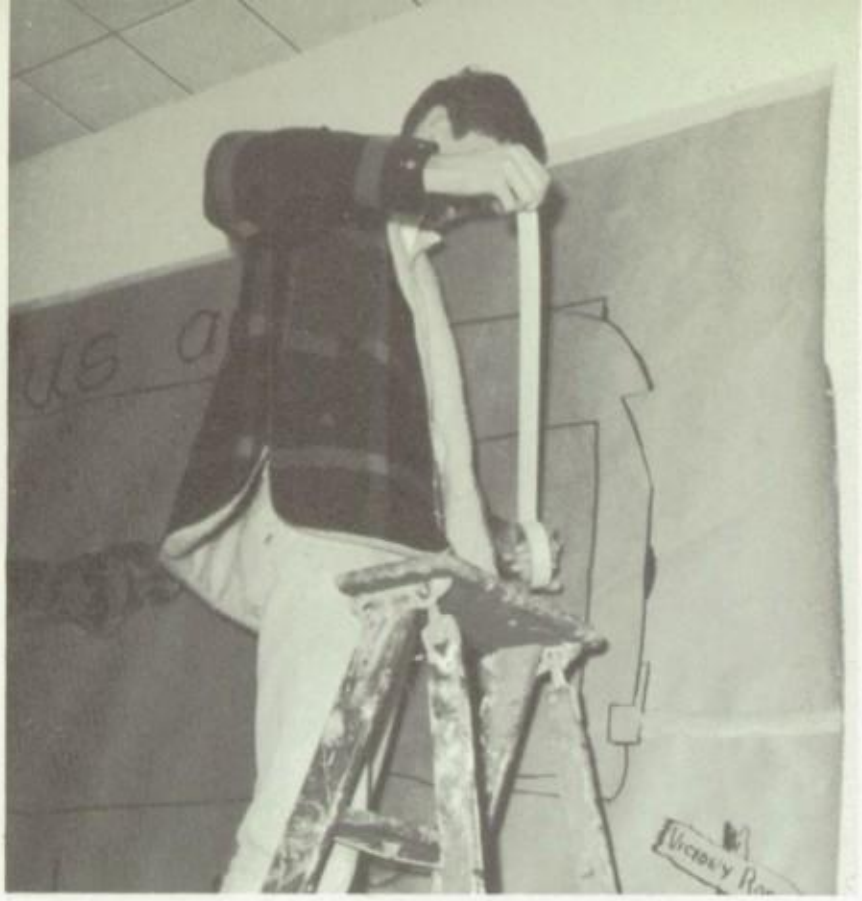
CHESS CLUB: AROUND THE TABLES: John Wirsching, John Barr, V. Pres.; Meredith Hull, Sec.; Alan Shumard, Tres.; Jim Chandler, Steve Shook, Dan Ferguson, Pres.; Mark Shumard, Eddie Evitt, Steve Wendelboe, Bob Collins, James Barr, Randy Majors.

Jim Barr waits patiently while John Barr decides his next move.

The Chess Club was begun in 1965 to provide an organized place to play the Royal game. Besides weekly intra-club meetings, the club meets other schools about once a month. The top five players, who participate in these events, are called the varsity team, and are determined by having the highest ratings in a point system.

The Club has begun a library this year by purchasing eight books. Included in future plans are the buying of more chess sets, more books, and on expansion of interscholastic meets.

Officers in the Chess Club are: Dan Ferguson, President; John Barr, Vice-President/Secretary; Alan Shumard, Treasurer; and Mr. Bartnick, sponsor.



Larry Breese posts a banner to boost spirit.

The Letterman's Club is an honorary society for those athletes in the student body who have won their varsity letters in the following sports: football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, golf, baseball, tennis, and track.

The Letterman's Club is an association dedicated to the fellowship of athletes. It is designed to promote athletic participation at Greenfield High School and to better the calibre of athletics at the school.

One of the key projects of the club is the sale of the letterman's sweatshirt to the members of the club. Another project of the club is to use the club funds to purchase athletic equipment for the athletic department. Usually this equipment is designed to benefit all athletes of the high school.

Debbie Condra and Shirley Hackney prepare the G.A.A. handbook.

The purposes of G.A.A. are several. First, there is the active participation in sports, giving girls a chance to play. G.A.A. also promotes sportsmanship and fellowship.

This year, the girls in G.A.A. have already participated in one inter-scholastic competition at Southport. They hope to enter and compete in track events again this year. These competitions give the girls a chance to meet new people and learn new ideas. There are several sports available to girls in G.A.A., such as bowling, volleyball, basketball, tennis, billiards, and track.

Red Cross Club Develops First-Aid Ability

Red Cross members beautify downtown headquarters.

The Red Cross is proud to have its new headquarters, located above Danner's. Under the guidance of their sponsor, Mr. Bartnick, they obtained two rooms in the local Chapter Office and cleaned and painted them. The members now have a place to meet in the evenings and after school to see movies or educational programs.

The first project this year was to make filled Christmas socks for the people at the County Home. Monthly packages will be sent to soldiers in Viet Nam.

Films are shown at the meetings in order to promote interest in health and safety. Included in future plans are a County wide Red Cross Club Meeting, a benefit dance, and the sponsoring of a delegate to the summer training session at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Marching Tigers Put Music on the Move

The 1966-1967 "Marching" Tiger Band has worked hard to represent the school and community. After two strenuous weeks of practice, the Tigers presented a precision marching routine at the State Fair Marching Contest and placed in the upper third bands participating in the contest. Upon return from the State Fair, the band began practice for the first football game. The Tigers performed flashy precision drill and dance routines at every home football game under the leadership of Larry Breese, Drum Major.

At the end of the marching season the marching band transformed itself into the Concert Band. Within the next two six weeks the band had to prepare for the Solo-Ensemble Contest, State Band Contest, The School Christmas Program, and the Annual Winter Concert.

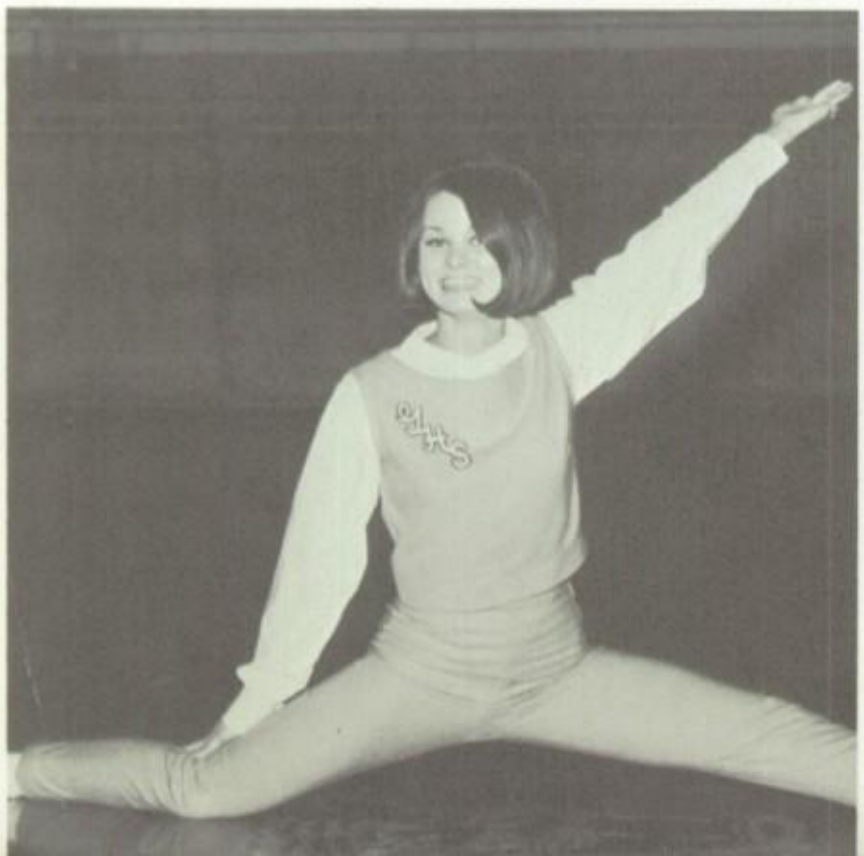
VARSITY CHEERLEADERS: Virginia Kester, Brenda Mullen, Shirley Hackney, Marsha Brooks, Marilyn Walker.



SHIRLEY HACKNEY

Senior, Shirley Hackney, has been on the G.H.S. cheerleading squad for the past four years. Her tumbling and acrobatic stunts helped the squad to win first place in the cheerleading conference at Vincennes, Indiana. Her enthusiasm and personality as well as her ability has helped lead this year's Tiger Team to victory.

RESERVE CHEERLEADERS: Cathy Curtis, Susie Ash, Carol Grier, Patty Pitman.

FRESHMEN CHEERLEADERS: Koleen Strahl, Janet Butterfield, Marsha Marshall, Carol Thomas.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

Amid the throngs of youthful faces appears occasionally a countenance of more maturity, in other words, someone older. The voice of experience is spoken loud and clear by faculty and administration.

Some say experience is the best teacher—many students agree. The teachers are there to soften the blows of the cruelties in life. They are there to sneak a smile on hearing a naive expression.

Perhaps the most exciting role for Greenfield's administrators has been the planning for the new school. Heads together with teachers and architects, they reflect the voice of the community in their considerations.

Teachers have always been provided with the opportunity to take a day off to be a spectator. Actually this explains the Professional Day provided for teachers who elect to visit other schools. This visiting has augmented the planning in providing ideas for room arrangements, books, and teaching materials.

What has been a weed field will eventually become an education plant due to combined efforts of community, faculty and administration of Greenfield.

Administrators Propose Policies

Mr. Tidrow

Serving as the principal of Greenfield High School since 1960 is Mr. Ernest Tidrow. In addition to his many administrative duties, Mr. Tidrow is constantly working on behalf of the students in all areas of the school and community.

This year the school board, headed by Mr. J. B. Stephens, has completed plans for the new Greenfield-Central Community High School to be ready for use in 1969. The students and faculty of Greenfield High School sincerely thank the school board and Mr. Tidrow for the time and effort spent on this project.

Miss Gray

Through many hours of extra help and effort as well as through the decor of her office, Miss Evelyn Gray promotes a feeling of spirit at Greenfield High School. Miss Gray serves as counselor and Dean of Women, and gives much help and encouragement to many college prep students as well as guiding others into vocations after graduation. In addition, she serves as both Cheerblock sponsor and National Honor Society advisor.

Mr. Pfaff

Mr. Don Pfaff serves Greenfield High School in two capacities. He is Assistant Principal and Dean of Men as well as Athletic Director. In addition to the many hours he spends counseling and planning our sports events, he serves as advisor to the Student Council.

English Department Teaches Both

Mrs. Jane Keene

Mrs. Ann Lee

Mrs. Florence Molinder

Mrs. Polly Weatherman

Mrs. McKinney discusses English authors with her Freshman students.

Mrs. Molinder cheerfully grades semester exams.

By word of mouth and across the printed page the English department strives to communicate the teaching of communication. Theme writing, research work in the library, and class discussions are aimed toward fulfilling the right of freedom of expression and freedom in expression.

Another opportunity for oral English is available in the study of speech. This class aims to relieve the butterflies and shaky hands from that first terrifying experience before an audience. The speakers have fun with pantomime, then struggle with logic of debate.

The journalism class realizes the freedom of the press and the rules to follow in exerting this freedom through the study of journalism. Practical experience is provided by publication of The Rileyan.

The English department also joins the music department for the presentation of drama and musical comedies. Yet, English only yesterday was just one of the three R's.

Mathematics and Science Prepares

Mr. John Cline

Mr. Richard Gorrell

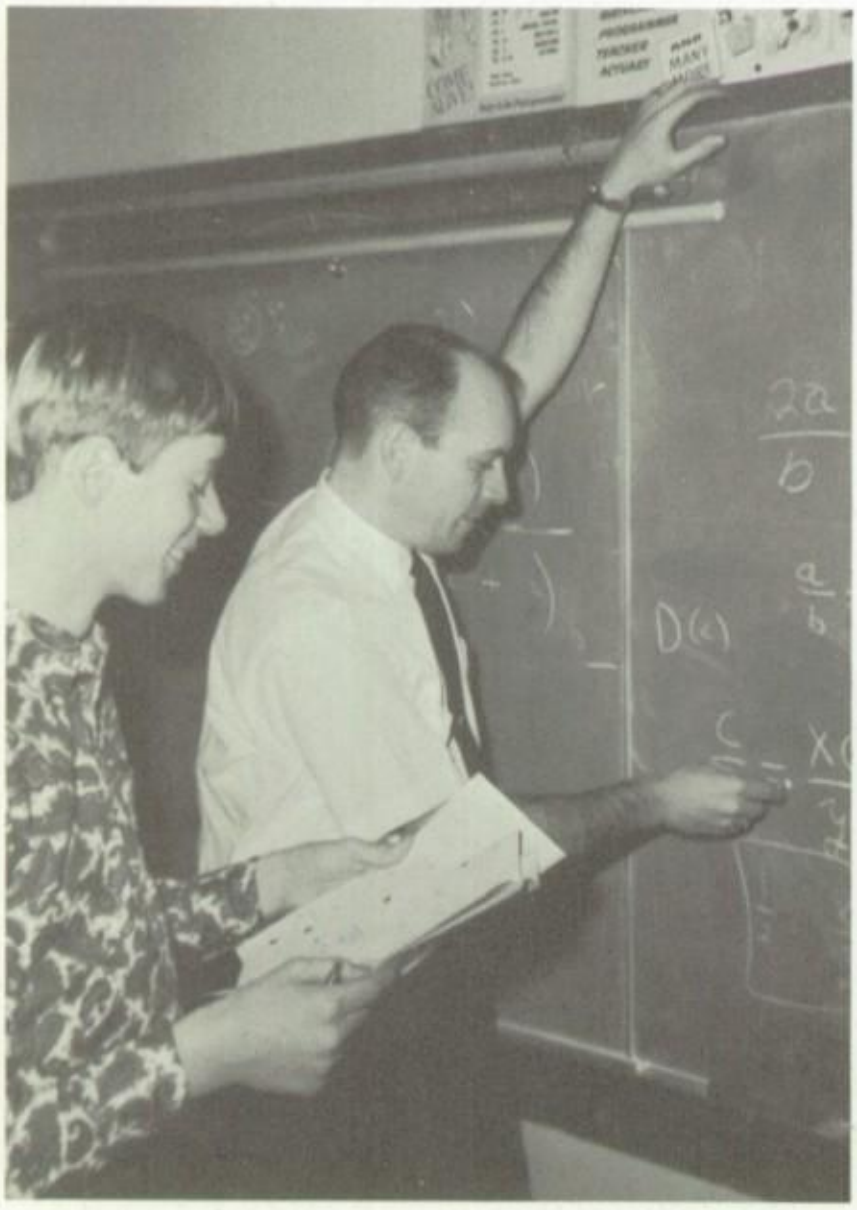
Mr. William Harpring

Mr. Charles Wise

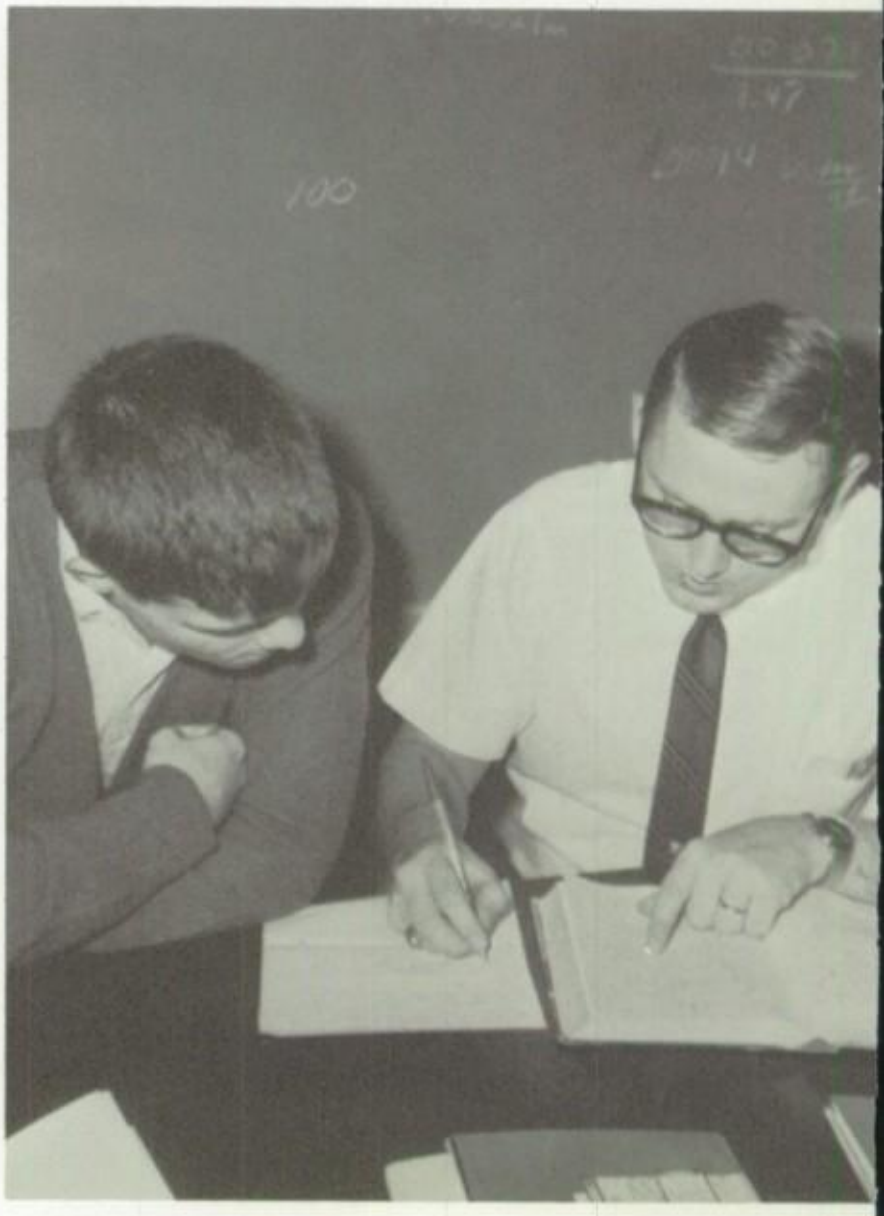
Further expansion of the "modern math" interpretation of teaching mathematics is evident in this year's curriculum. The new ideas and methods taught better prepare students for the technical jobs of the future.

The Greenfield High School mathematics department provides ample courses for every student's interest and ability. In addition to Pre-algebra, general mathematics, geometry, algebra, and comprehensive mathematics, students can take summer courses in set theory and probability.

Mr. Harpring instructs Freshmen algebra student.



Geometry poses a problem for Steve Kirkpatrick.



Students for the Technical World

Mr. Keith Elsbury

Mr. Robert Miller

Mr. Earl Moore

Mr. Clayton Myers

Mr. Moore assists Rick Gregory and Vicky Drake in lab problem.

The Science department of Greenfield High School provides comprehensive courses in the fields of both physical and biological science. The modern science laboratories give students the chance to better understand the principles discussed in the classroom and the text. The field work students do on their own puts their knowledge to practical use.

Mr. Elsbury prepares biology test.

Social Studies Exploits the Golden Past

Mr. Don Bishop

Mr. Larry Fox

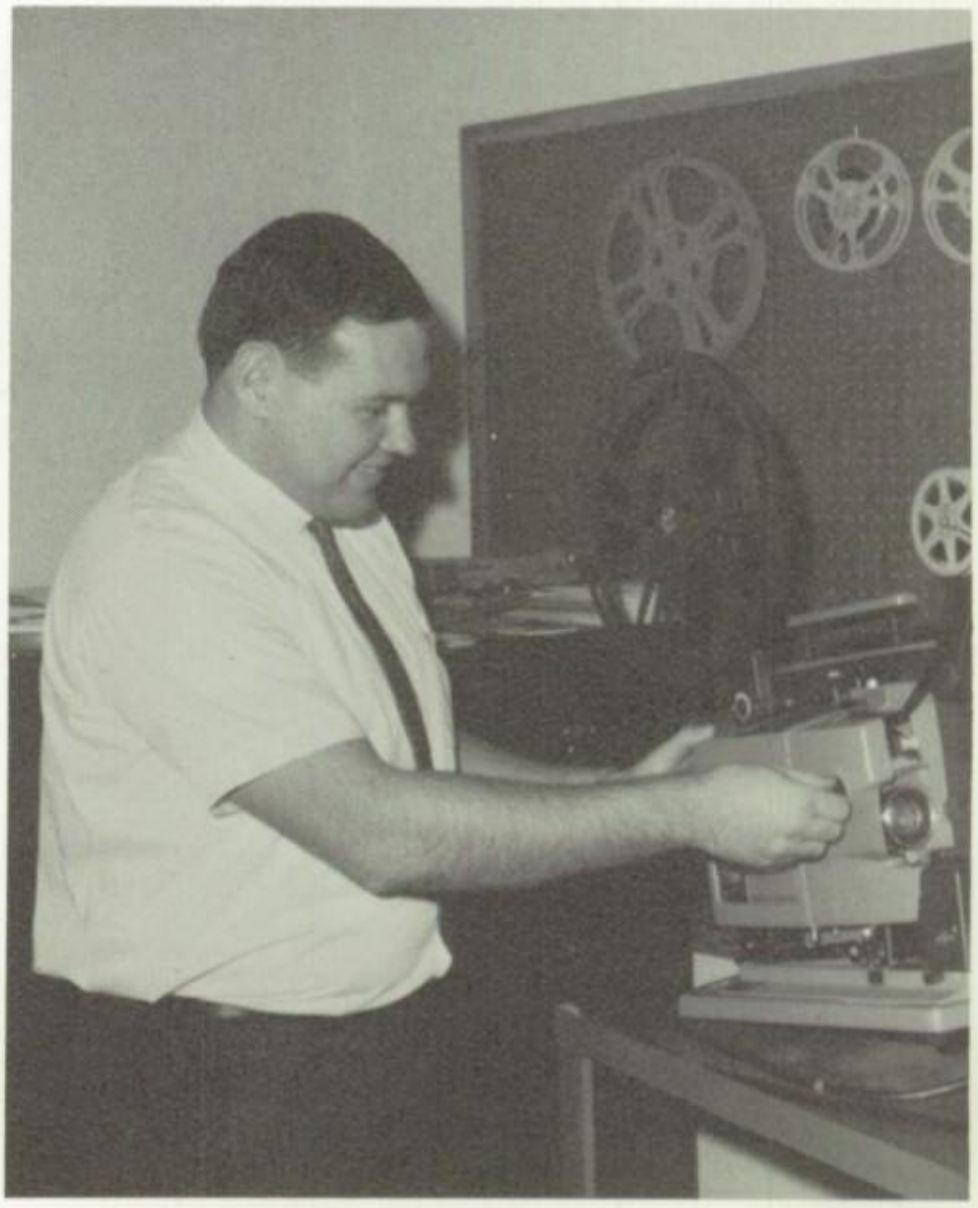
Mr. Dave Welcome

All students graduating from Greenfield High School are required to take United States History, one semester of government, and a choice of either economics or sociology. In addition, the social studies department offers courses in past history and the social sciences.

This year, a new course, Contemporary Problems, has been added to the curriculum. In the new high school, the department hopes to improve even more its curriculum and modern application to the rapidly expanding field of social sciences.

Mr. Bishop checks notes for government lecture.

Mr. Welcome prepares one of many films for U. S. History class.



Business Education Precedes Careers

Mr. Raymond Bartnick

Mrs. Rita Bertsch

The business department of Greenfield High School anticipates enlarging the already comprehensive curriculum in the new high school. Distributive education will be added and office machines will teach the use of adding machines, calculators, and comptometers. The Bookkeeping classes will have access to the office machines equipment which will be more in keeping with an employment situation. Through these improved methods, the business department hopes to emphasize the importance and opportunities of a business education today.

Miss Esther Bower

Mrs. Jane Wilson

The Language department of Greenfield High School has taken great strides in the past two years. One year of both French and German have been added to the two years of both Latin and Spanish already offered. A third year of French is a possible addition to next year's curriculum.

Modern methods of teaching are put to full use in the language department, and will be further expanded in the new high school.

Mr. George Huntworth

Mr. Huntworth gives extra instruction to band student.

The art, choral, and band departments enrich students lives by endowing them with an aesthetic appreciation for the fine arts. Students develop methods of self-expression through their skills in art, chorus, and band.

Mrs. Demegret admires students work.

Vocational Training Focuses on Future

Mrs. Jean Cox

Mrs. Kathy Wilson

This year's home economics dept. is continuing to broaden in more material and experience for the future homemakers.

For the first time the freshmen are experimenting with outdoor cooking.

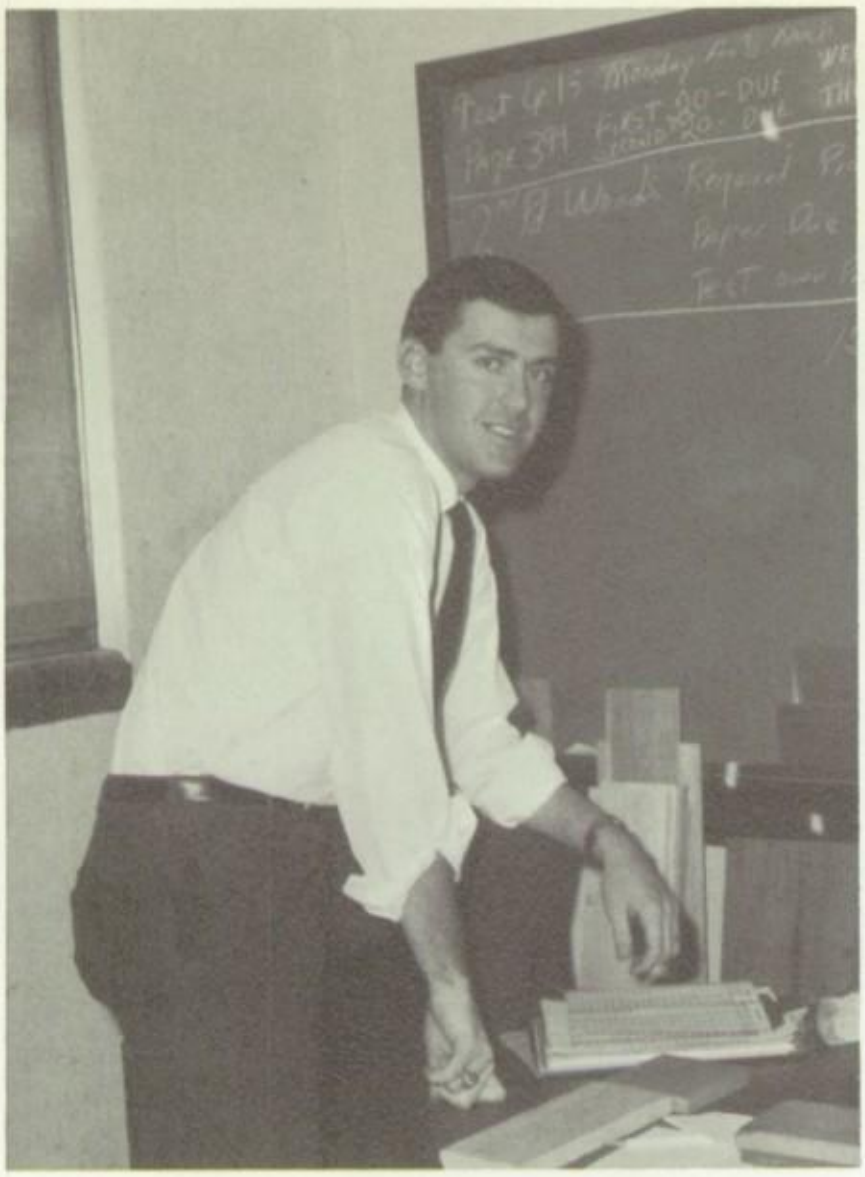
Besides participating in the Betty Crocker Home Maker Contest, the seniors are given a taste of family living and tailoring in the new Home Ec. IV class.

All of the Home Ec. students are responsible for Christmas projects—one of which is the faculty dinner.

In the spring the public gets a glimpse of "Greenfield Originals" as the pupils model the outfits they have made for the Fashion Show.

Mrs. Cox checks student's pie crust.

Home Ec classes prepare Christmas dinner for faculty.



Mr. Garland pauses from averaging semester grades.

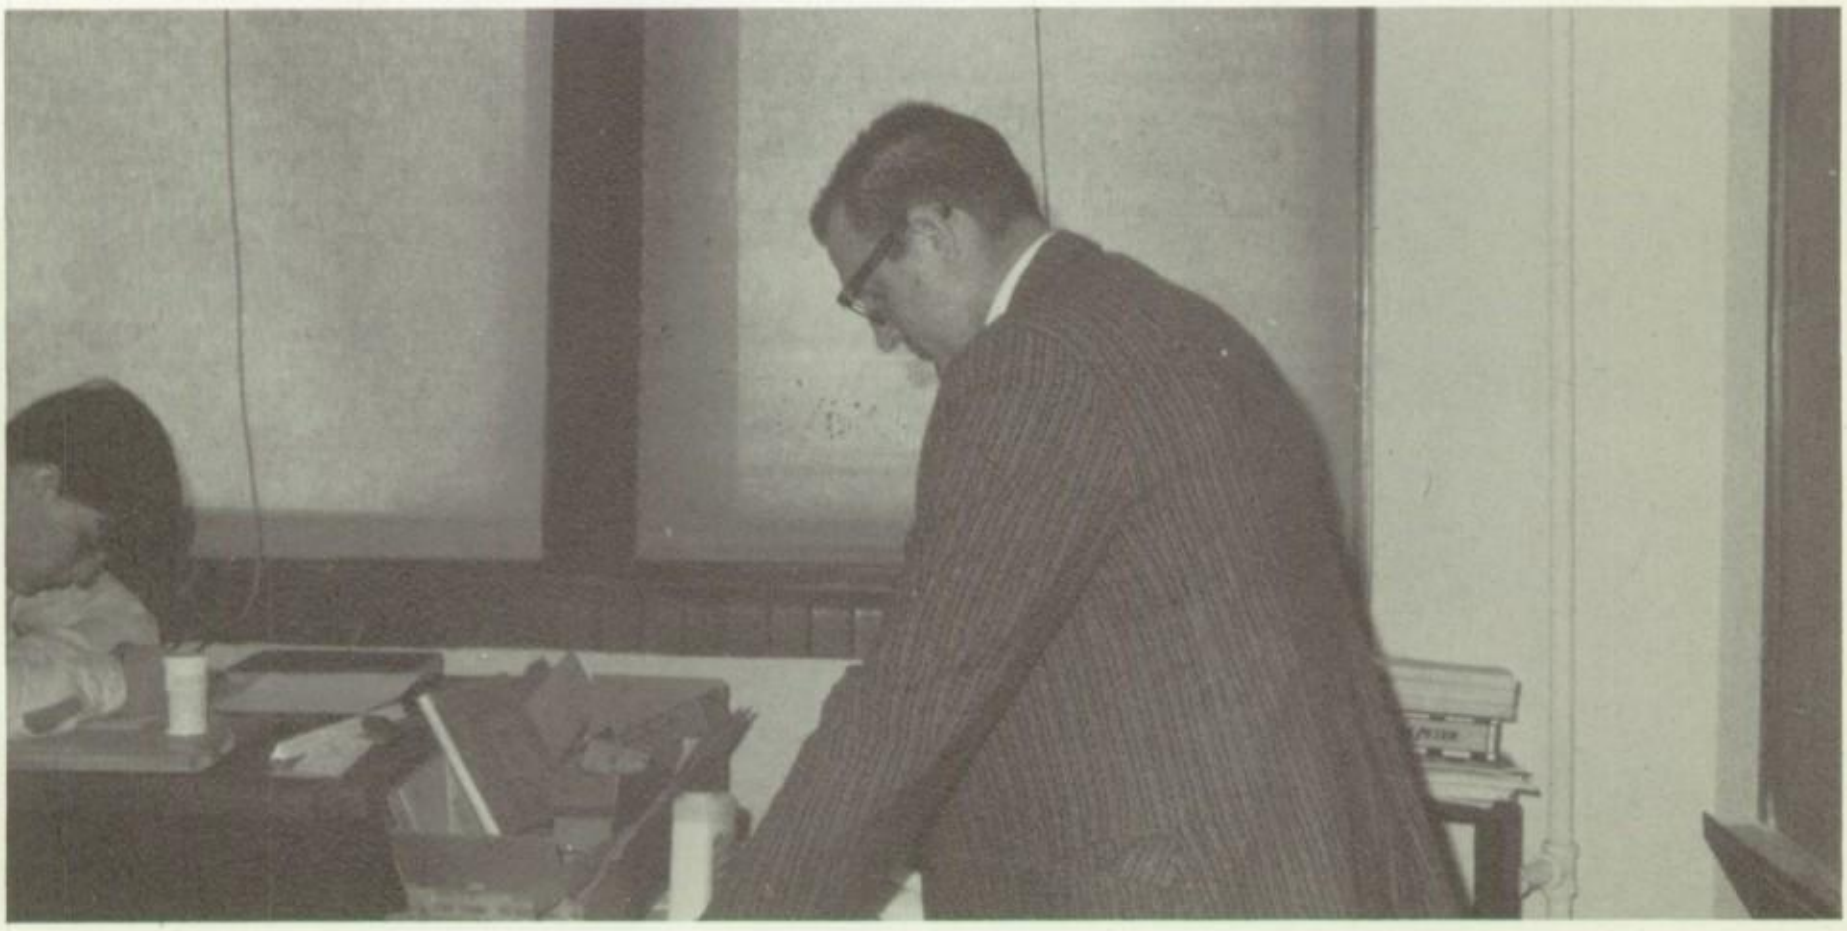
Mr. Mel Garland

Mr. James Zielinski

Engineers, Draftsmen, Mechanics, Carpenters, Printers, Electricians, or general "Mr. Fix It" can get acquainted with his future through the expanding Industrial Arts Dept.

The field has broadened to Household Mechanics, Mechanical Drawing, Printing, Power Mechanics, and Electricity.

This program helps the students prepare for a position or for future training in these areas. This gives them practical application for a lifetime occupation.



Mr. Zielinski prepares to return six-weeks tests.

presenting the SENIORS

As the curtain goes up for the final act, the seasoned actors of the Senior class face the most crucial role of their careers. Their performance in this one act will polish their other performances and their hopes of continuing their career in college.

Chosen to lead these actors were Rick Gray, Jeff Baker, Janie Wyatt, and Debbie Condra. Their duties are to direct the actors in their performance before they ascend to higher goals and higher places.

The Senior's entry into the annual Homecoming Float Contest showed a large Kleenex box with a tissue coming out with the theme "Pop up a Victory." The actors nominated Pam Howell and Kathy Wilson for the Academy Award for the Best Actress during the run of Homecoming. By election of the entire student body, Miss Pam Howell was selected for this elite position.

The Seniors composed the majority of the victorious football team. Four of the members were chosen for the Capital District Conference team. They were Rick Gray, Jim Davis, Dave Messerlie, and Ron Shively.

However, the play finally ends its four year run and all prepare for the graduation and commencement exercises.

UNDERCLASSMEN

As the compound word above is first read, the reader takes for granted the title encompasses the group of students who are not yet seniors. Dividing the word into its component parts leaves three words —under, class, and men.

One of the numerous definitions for under is "planted with." Class is also a slang term for "excellence." A man is sometimes "a member of a team." Then these looser meanings of the words are combined the results is "a player on a team planted with excellence." Is this an appropriate term for the underclassmen of Greenfield High School?

Another method of defining words is to give examples. Perhaps this will unravel the proof of the true meaning of the word, underclassmen.

This group of people were participants in a great variety of activities in addition to the traditional book-learning in school. Freshmen made their first high school stage appearance in "The Amorous Flea" which also utilized the talents of sophomores and juniors. Curtain calls were made once more in the play produced in the spring.

Publications provided another opportunity for the group to claim fame. Staffs of The Rileyan and The Camaraderie were composed of many who practiced to fill the leading positions of editors for future years.

Freshmen sports required freshmen cheerleaders. Others served the varsity and reserve teams to play and cheer.

Officers and members of the school's clubs were drawn from the majority group or those who are not yet seniors. All these activities provided the opportunity for the underclass "team" to reap a crop of excellence.

presenting the JUNIORS

Junior Class Officers are Mark Harrison, President; John Howell, Vice-President; Joyce Hyatt, Secretary; Connie Brooks, Treasurer.

Looking through rose-tinted glasses, the juniors see school life as they've never seen it before. Everything has a rosey, happy hue and they finally feel independent, important and worthy of a star on their locker doors.

As a result of the direction of their class officers, Mark Harrison, John Howell, Joyce Hyatt, and Connie Brooks, the prima donnas of the junior class were presented with the Academy Award for the Best Float in the Homecoming Parade. The Float, entitled "Watch Our Score Rise," depicted a rocket being shot from the football field through the goal posts. Chosen as leading actress of the junior class and representative in the Queen's Court was Miss Karen Kirkpatrick.

The juniors produced, directed and starred in intermission activities with their concession project. The income from this project financed the main attraction for the junior year, the 1967 Prom.

presenting the SOPHOMORES

The officers for the sophomore class are: Tom New, president; Rich Gray, vice-president; Lynn Lane, secretary; and Joyce Oldham, Treasurer.

In the second act a new spirit haunts the lives of the stagestruck sophomores. Beginning to show their worth as skillful performers their roles continue to increase as the play progresses. The mood is less comic as the role of upperclassmen looms in the not so distant future. The shininess of freshman enthusiasm has tarnished. The "Sophomore Slump" has set in.

Homecoming activities gave the sophomores a chance for an acting accolade as they placed second in contention with the other floats. Marsha Ferguson a seasoned actress captivated her sophomore fans as their representative homecoming attendant.

Because some of them learned their lines well and proved dramatic prowess, they were invited to join the National Honor Society.

The scene stealers appear to be the class officers who are Tom New, Rick Gray, Lynn Lane, and Joyce Oldham.

presenting the FRESHMEN

Prodding the "Great White Way" for the first time are the freshmen. The stage-struck young hopefuls make their debuts as they enter the high school doors. Their first bit part in the four-act play will lead to bigger parts as the long running show continues.

Each performer is plagued by certain misfortunes. Some will get lost in the great shuffle. Others will leave at intermission with all hope diminished of achieving stage lines, but the seasoned actors can do the prompting.

Behind the scenes the costume committee selected class jackets and sweaters. The freshman cheerleaders set the stage for beginning school spirit.

As the curtain was raised the first act featured John Davis, Charley Freeman, Carol Thomas, and June Walker as Class Officers, however, starlet Randi Haynie, stole the show as the homecoming attendant.

Products begin as BIG ideas at Lilly

This has been our way of life for over 90 years. Many of our BIG ideas come from diversified research and development. Our drug research has produced medicines to improve health and prolong life for people everywhere. Our agricultural research has discovered chemicals that increase farm yields to feed growing populations throughout the world. Industry has many needs, too. Our laboratories seek the answers. Our search for better plastic packaging materials is an example. You can help us to serve mankind by bringing us your talents and energies. Your BIG ideas today could mean BIG things for the future—such ideas do at Eli Lilly and Company.

The task of composing a high school annual is an arduous but exceedingly satisfying one; a deep pride in the final product is realized by each member of the staff as well as myself. This year we fulfilled a resolution to raise the quality of copy and photographs which in the past editions has been neglected.

Without the talents of many people, the 1967 Camaraderie with the above mentioned improvements could never have taken shape. For their work and support, I sincerely thank Mrs. Weatherman for relinquishing many after school hours to advise us throughout the course of the winter; Mr. Tidrow, whose support by authorizing the many formal pictures was essential; Mr. Briles, who aided us in the capacity of photographer and worked far beyond his requirements to insure a successful annual, and to my staff, whose untiring work made this annual possible. To all who aided in preparing this book, your assistance is deeply appreciated.
